Large flows pose a challenge to managing rupee appreciation

The large inflow of foreign money in recent times is more likely to help deleverage indebted promoters than aid the setting up of new factories and other investments that could generate new jobs. Around 67 per cent of the deals made in August were asset sales, shows an analysis of Bloomberg data. While this isn't always the case (it was less than 1 per cent in July), there does seem to be limited incentive for foreign investment in the creation of new capacity that could generate new jobs.

Sreejith Balasubramanian, economist — fund management, IDFC Asset Management Company, said there does not seem to be a compelling case for greenfield investments that would involve setting up new factories, given the macroeconomic environment. Emerging markets like India are seen as riskier when it comes to setting up new businesses. This might be a headwind given the current sentiment. "People are generally risk-averse," he said.

A number of recent deals have involved some deleveraging. The largest has been Reliance Industries' series of deals netting investors in its Jio Platforms.

Promoters of the Emami Group have said they will look at stake sales to bring down leverage. They previously sold Emami Cement to Nuvoco Corporation.

Foreign money has also been flooding the share market. Foreign portfolio investors were net buyers with ₹47,080 crore inflows in August. This influx of foreign capital makes it more difficult to manage the currency. Given the dollar inflow, the rupee could have easily touched 60 a dollar level if the Reserve Bank of India (RBI) hadn't intervened, say currency dealers.

India's foreign exchange reserves were $428 billion in August 2019. This figure has risen to $542 billion as of September 4, thanks to aggressive dollar buying by the central bank. That's an increase of $114 billion. In contrast, the previous $100 billion rise in reserves took over four years, from January 2015 to August 2019.

However, the central bank indicated that it could be in favour of a relatively stronger rupee to curb imported inflation, mainly in the form of cheaper crude import.

RBI recently said the "recent appreciation of the rupee is working towards containing imported inflationary pressures". The next day, September 1, the rupee closed 1.03 per cent up at 72.87 against the dollar. It has since weakened to 73.5 a dollar on September 16. At the current level of $542 billion, India's foreign exchange reserves are enough to cover about 14 months of imports.

According to Soumya Kanti Ghosh, chief economic advisor to the State Bank of India (SBI), while large forex reserves act as insurance against exchange rate volatility, they result in the "familiar policy quadrilemma of financial integration, exchange rate stability, monetary policy independence and financial stability".

There is also a cost involved because the central bank holds more low-yielding foreign assets.

Some of that impact was already visible in the annual accounts for 2019-20 (FY20). The annual yields of RBI assets were just 2 per cent in FY20, down from 2.6 per cent in FY19. The interest yield on its rupee assets declined to 3.4 per cent in FY20 from 4.6 per cent a year ago and 4 per cent in FY18. It was as high as 6.9 per cent in FY15.

This is despite RBI's balance sheet expanding by at least 30 per cent in FY20. As a result, the surplus transferred to the government was ₹57,128 crore in FY20, lesser than the budgeted ₹60,000 crore.

Titan rolls out contactless digital payments watches

SAMREEN AHMAD
Bengaluru, 16 September

With the Covid-19 pandemic putting digital payments at the centre stage, watches-to-jewellery maker Titan has taken e-payments to another level by rolling out the country's first contactless payments watches.

Called Titan Pay, the new range of watches has been launched in collaboration with State Bank of India (SBI), allowing its YONO account holders to tap the watch on contactless (Point-of-Sale) PoS machines without swiping or inserting the bank card.

The launch of the watch, which had been in the works for over two years, was fast-tracked after the Covid-19 outbreak. "We felt that this product was something the future was ready for and because of the Covid-19, the future was here and now," said Suparna Mitra, chief executive officer, watches and wearables division, Titan.

A secure near-field communication (NFC) chip developed by start-up Tappy Technologies is embedded in the watch strap that enables contactless transaction. The Canada-based firm has developed these chips, which can be embedded into any fashion accessory turning it into a smart payments wearable.

For the registered users of SBI YONO, there is an option called wearables on the app that takes the person through a three step process, with the final step of keying in a unique identification number which comes with the watch to link it with the bank account.

Once a user waives the watch near a

MasterCard-enabled PoS machine, any payment of up to ₹2,000 can be made without entering a PIN. The payment feature on these watches will be accessible on over two million contactless MasterCard-enabled PoS machines in the country.

If the watch gets misplaced or stolen, the user will have to raise the issue with the bank or block the chip through the YONO app. "The product is perfectly secure and the transaction limit of ₹2,000 itself ensures that there is no big loss to the user," said Rajnish Kumar, chairman, SBI.

Priced between ₹2,995 and ₹5,995, the Titan Pay range will be available in five styles on the Titan website. "SBI is the perfect partner to introduce a payment solution for the new normal, which is fast, secure, and seamless," said C K Venkataraman, managing director, Titan.

The lifestyle company has been investing heavily in research and development to develop smart watches that will be ahead of their times and do things such as switching off lights, locking, and unlocking doors, the company had earlier told Business Standard.

The Tata Group firm, which launched its first smartwatch in 2016, sold over 17 million timepieces globally last year. However, Titan's watches division, which accounts for 12-15 per cent revenue of the Bengaluru-headquartered firm, was the worst hit during Q1, as demand for the accessory has drastically fallen after the pandemic. The segment recorded a decline of 89 per cent in revenue for the quarter.

Hence, the company has been betting big on the gifting strategy to revive sales.

SC to begin hearing SBI's plea against Anil Ambani today

DEV CHATTERJEE
Mumbai, 16 September

Indian lenders are keenly watching the outcome of a petition filed by State Bank of India (SBI) in the Supreme Court, which invoked the personal guarantees of Anil Ambani. The SC will hear the petition on Thursday.

A banker said Ambani has objected to the SBI invoking personal guarantees under the Corporate Debtors Regulations, 2019. Till November, the IBC only covered Indian companies and not promoters. The new rules are applicable against the personal guarantors given to loans above ₹1,000 crore or more by promoters. "As Ambani's will be the first case where personal guarantees have been invoked and is now in SC, it will decide the fate of 40 other top defaulters who were sent to NCLT since IBC law came into effect in 2017," said a banker. In its petition to the SC, SBI said several promoters have moved the Delhi High Court after their personal guarantees have been invoked.

The fate of dues worth ₹45,000 crore, including to the Chinese banks, will be decided by the NCLT where the matter is still pending, and the personal guarantee matter will be heard by the top court.

On September 7, the SBI also invoked the personal guarantees of Sanjay Singal, promoter of Bhushan Power & Steel, as the company defaulted to loans worth ₹48,000 crore. The debt resolution of the company is almost ready in the NCLT, with JSW Steel declared the highest bidder with a ₹19,700-crore offer. The matter is currently pending in the SC after JSW Steel sought its intervention on not holding the firm liable for any criminal acts of the previous promoter. The SC will come out with its verdict on this issue this month.

Silver Lake and its growing pool of India investments

SAMREEN AHMAD
Bengaluru, 16 September

The global tech investment fund has made three bets worth over $2.3 bn this year in India after a gap of 7 years

Global technology investment fund Silver Lake has made three bets worth over $2.3 billion this year in India after almost a gap of seven years. The private equity (PE) biggie has committed to pumping money into Jio Platforms, Byju's, and Reliance Retail so far this year — all marquee names in their respective sectors.

The PE player, which is on a par with the likes of SoftBank, Tiger Global, and Tencent in terms of funding size, is sticking to the strategy of investing in companies that have proven their mettle.

"Both Jio and Byju's represent investment opportunities in firms with well-established leadership positions. This has been further fortified with continuous investments that are flowing into these firms. And these are on-the-edge industries evolving into something that the future holds," said Alok Shende, managing director of Ascentium Insights.

As a large PE investor with over $60 billion in assets under management, Silver Lake will continue to bet on mature firms, say experts. Covid-19 has also accelerated technology adoption in general. Given that Silver Lake is a tech-focused fund, it is already seeing the merit in such expansion.

It has enough cash to deploy. Moreover, the time is ripe for it to invest in the country as India is on the evolutionary cusp.

This fits well into Silver Lake's thesis, observe experts. While it does back trends, it is more cautious in its investments, compared to other tech-driven investors, such as SoftBank, according to a Bengaluru-based PE investor. "Once it identifies the categories to invest in India in the future, it'll invest in one among the top three or those with potential to reach the top," added the person.

The Menlo Park-headquartered fund declined to comment on its India strategy. With direct overseas listing soon to become a reality in India, according to the recent statements from the finance ministry, global players are seeing India as a more attractive destination.

"Earlier, investors into India in the private space had concerns about exits and liquidity. This announcement clears the way for these investors to seek liquidity by exiting during an initial public offering on the Nasdaq/NYSE or other stock markets. Thus, these investments have become far more appealing," said Anup Jain, managing partner at Orios Venture Partners.

Silver Lake had entered India in 2013 by leading a $40-million-plus round in Bengaluru-based Eka Software Solutions.

It then took the player over seven years to make its second investment in India starting with Jio Platforms in May. It announced aggregate investments of $1.35 billion in Reliance Industries' digital arm, owning a 2.08-per cent stake in the firm.

This month, the global fund has made two back-to-back bets in the country — one in edtech decacorn Byju's and another in Mukesh Ambani's retail venture Reliance Retail. While it has led a $500-million round in Byju Raveendran's edtech start-up at a valuation of almost $11 billion, it has also committed to invest $1 billion in Reliance Retail for a 1.75 per cent stake.

With over 50 active investments across the world, the fund has made several big bets in technology companies, such as Twitter, Skype, Airbnb, Dell Technologies, and Didi Chuxing.
